CITY ADVISORY BOARDS & COMMISSIONS

Because citizen participation is an important ingredient for good government, Richfield's City Council has established various advisory commissions to encourage citizen participation in City matters, as well as to suggest new programs or policies and to serve as residential liaisons with the City Council.

The City Council will be making appointments to the following commissions. Residents are encouraged to apply if they are interested in serving on one of these commissions. Youth members must be less than 21 years old at the time of appointment. Terms are for one year, commencing upon appointment and ending August 31. The commissions include:

ADVISORY BOARD OF HEALTH: The Advisory Board of Health is charged with monitoring health programs in the City to ensure that the services are addressing the health needs of Richfield's citizens. As part of this responsibility, the board prepares an annual "Community Health Services Plan" which analyzes Richfield's health needs and how the present personal and environmental health programs meet those needs. This plan also serves as the City's application for state funding that helps support the health services. The board meets the third Monday, January through June, September and October at Richfield City Hall at 6 p.m. This board is composed of ten members who are appointed for three-year terms and one youth member appointed for a one-year term.

FRIENDSHIP CITY COMMISSION: The Friendship City Commission is charged with maintaining an ongoing friendship city relationship with Heredia, Costa Rica for mutual community-wide enrichment. Meetings are held the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Richfield City Hall. The commission is composed of nine members who are appointed for three-year terms and two youth appointments for a one-year term.

HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION: The Human Rights Commission seeks to inform Richfield residents of their rights. It is available to help citizens who feel they have been discriminated against, or who need information regarding their civil rights. The commission also serves as a community relations board and sponsors an annual "Citizen of the Year" award to honor individuals who have been responsible for activities and programs contributing to human understanding. Meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month at the City Hall offices at 7 p.m. This commission is composed of 11 members who are appointed for three-year terms and two youth appointments for a one-year term.
